

any loss in energy in any way is a loss in the form of heat or electromagnetic waves however there are some cases where energy is not lost but transferred from one thing to the other in a uniform system that is not heat loss but in any case any energy lost is lost in the form of heat even if the lost energy was in any form it would be in heat and electromagnetic waves